

a superposition of all possible inputs. If we apply the circuit implementing the function f , then we obtain as a result